About District Institute of Education & Training (DIET), Morigaon, Assam

DIET Morigaon established in 1995 is under the Deptt. of School Education, Govt. of Assam and affiliated to NCERT, Govt. of India.

About the Seminar :

The International Seminar on "Environment at the Crossroads: Balancing Development with Sustainability" aims to bring together academicians, researchers, educators, environmentalists, policymakers, and practitioners to engage in critical dialogue on the challenges posed by rapid development and environmental degradation.

In an era marked by climate change, biodiversity loss, technological interventions, and socio-economic inequalities, the seminar seeks to explore sustainable pathways that reconcile development goals with ecological balance and ethical responsibility. The seminar promotes interdisciplinary perspectives and innovative research addressing local, national, and global environmental concerns.

Objectives of the Seminar are to :

- Analyze critically the relationship between environmental protection and sustainable development.
- Encourage researchers to contribute innovative solutions for environmental challenges.
- Foster interdisciplinary research on ecological challenges, climate change and sustainable development framework.
- Explore the role of education and teacher education institutions in promoting sustainability oriented research and pedagogy.

Call for Papers :

The seminar invites original and unpublished research papers from faculty members, researchers, research scholars, students, and professionals across disciplines. Contributions may be theoretical, empirical, or practice-based and should align with the seminar theme and sub-themes.
